

 Designing your cremation spaces

Capitalize on the popularity of Cremation

Offer an expanded memorial selection to families of cremated loved ones

More people are choosing cremation over traditional burial due to its convenience, affordability and flexibility. But despite this changing preference, most families still desire some form of lasting memorial. Your cemetery is in a prime position to help these people remember cremated loved ones, including those with their cremains scattered elsewhere.

Coldspring offers everything you need to become the preferred cremation memorial resource for the regions you serve. You'll find the broadest selection of top-quality solutions available — something for every need, budget and space requirement — backed by unmatched expertise and service to help you confidently expand your capabilities and enhance bottom-line performance.

Serve your families

The lives of those we memorialize include an incredible variety of personalities and experiences. With an extensive cremation solutions portfolio from Coldspring, you can offer dignified cremation memorials for an equally expansive range of families. Our portfolio ranges from markers, pillars and boulders to benches, columbariums, Private Estates® and gardens.

Improve long-term profitability

By offering a broader range of cremation memorial options, you will be appropriately changing with the times and capturing more business you might otherwise lose by staying focused on traditional burials. You will have new opportunities for generating revenue, earning client loyalty and driving positive word of mouth, all of which positively impacts profits.

Maximize your available space

Our consultants apply decades of hands-on experience to deliver beautiful space-efficient options for cremation memorialization. That includes transforming formerly unused spaces within cemetery grounds into beautiful cremation gardens that serve as a welcoming and tranquil place to reflect.

Memorials that hold cremains

Choose from a wealth of distinctive interment options for your cremation clients

Unlike traditional memorials where above ground interment in a mausoleum is the only alternative to ground burial, virtually endless options exist for housing individual cremated remains, whether in a niche space or a hollowed-out core.

From bronze-on-granite markers to benches, boulders, pillars and more, we can help you create beautiful resting places at your cemetery, allowing you to extend the same levels of personalized service you provide for traditional burials. All Coldspring solutions are meticulously designed and skillfully crafted from the highest quality materials.

Companion and individual cremation pillars can be designed in a multitude of granite colors, with inscriptions and images that add a distinctive, personalized touch. Custom designs are also available.

Cremation boulder memorials exude strength, beauty and the enduring qualities of nature, and are chosen to blend with the surrounding environment.

Other cremation memorials

Create respectful gathering places for families who scatter or store ashes elsewhere

Many families choose to scatter the cremains of loved ones at a favorite location or store them in an urn at home. Both are highly personal and appropriate final resting places, but neither leaves a physical location where friends and other family members can gather to reflect and remember.

Coldspring offers a variety of distinctive ways for you to create memorials at your cemetery that let survivors pay tribute to individuals with their cremated remains residing elsewhere. Options range from boulders and pillars to bronze-on-granite flush memorials, benches with statuary, and tasteful bronze butterflies.

The Coldspring bronze butterfly and cremation stones provide an attractive option for families that don't choose a traditional burial but would like a physical remembrance of the departed at home or in the cemetery.

Benches offer welcoming gathering places for honoring the memory of loved ones who had their ashes scattered.
